- The 1995 Dakota Wesleyan University men's golf team was the first to participate in the NAIA National Tournament in school history. The team placed 33rd, and the low individual was Ryan Huber in 67th place.
- Rich Crow Eagle was named All-GPAC and became DWU's first two-sport All-Conference performer in 2002. He was also named All-Conference in basketball.
- In the fall of 2007, the Tigers were ranked among the NAIA Top 25 for the first time ever in the program's history. They entered the poll tied for No. 25.
- During the spring of 2008, the DWU men's golf team ran away with their first-ever GPAC title in school history. The tournament was held at Green Valley Golf Course in Sioux City, Iowa. The Tigers won by 11 strokes.
- In 2009, DWU earned its first trip to the NAIA Men's Golf National Championships, where the team finished 25th. The Tigers received the GPAC's automatic bid for their second-place finish, since conference champ Nebraska Wesleyan University is affiliated with NCAA Division III for men's golf.
